BALTIMORE-LIVERPOOL STEAMER WAR VICTIM

(By the International News Service.) Baltimore, Md., Oct. 27.—The steamship Rowanmore, of the Johnston Line, one of the largest vessels trading between this port and Liverpool, has been sunk. Dispatches fail to state the cause of the sinking, but the opinion expressed in shipping circles here is that a hostile submarine intercepted the vessel. Ship registered 10,329 gross tons, was equipped with wireless, and carried a crew of more than fifty men. It is not known whether all of the crew was saved. The Rowanmore sailed from here on October 14, with a general cargo.

FRESHMEN DRENCHED IN G. W. TUG-OF-WAR

Sophomores Drag Opponents Into Stream from Firehouse.

Illuminated by the glaring headlights of twenty automobiles parked on the Speedway last night, twenty-two freshmen of the department of arts and sciences of George Washington University, who lined up on one end of a 240-foot rope were thoroughly drenched when twenty-two sophomores pulling on the other end dragged them into the stream of a two-and-a-half-inch fire hose. For ten minutes the sophomores pulled for the honor of their classes while fair co-eds cheered them and a crowd watched anxiously. Then the freshmen weakened and the sophomores, captained by C. T. Drapes, won the tug-of-war by slowly dragging the freshmen, one by one, into the artificial rainstorm.

After the contest the victorious sophomores, joined by a few wet freshmen, paraded and snake-danced, with cheers and songs, to the downtown district and down F and Ninth streets.

The student council of the university planned the tug-of-war, and upper classmen, aided by football men, kept the crowd back from the roped enclosure along the Speedway.

Arrangements were made by the office of Public Buildings and Grounds, and the hose was handled by Albert Burton.

Previous to the contest, the freshmen of Columbian College and the College of Engineering organized and elected officers at 202 G street. Prof. De Witt C. Croissant, secretary of the faculty committee on student activities, and Rhea M. Norris, chairman of the student council, talked to them.

William K. Wilbur, son of Dean William Allen Wilbur, of Columbia College, was elected president of the Columbian College freshman class. Miss Ethel C. Yohe was elected vice president; Miss Martha Waring, secretary; Russell Whyte, treasurer; Chester La Follette, sergeant-at-arms, and Miss Agnes Lee, editor.

Officers of the College of Engineering freshmen are: President, Paul Wrenn; vice president, J. Ralph Barrow; secretary, Reginald Boyd; treasurer, J. Earl Hummer; editor, Arthur Greely, and sergeant-at-arms, Clarence M. Godfrey. John S. Bixler, 17; William S. James, 17, and Leslie W. Teller, 18, composed the committee of the student council in charge of the tug-of-war.

CAPITAL UN-AMERICAN, DECLARES P. T. MORAN

Chamber of Commerce, President Argues for District Suffrage.

"Washington is the only un-American city in the United States," said P. T. Moran, president of the Chamber of Commerce, in his plea for suffrage to the Brightwood Citizens' Association last night.

Mr. Moran argued for the enfranchisement of the District. He said that in a city where the white population was 225,000 and the colored 75,000 there was no danger of a predominant negro vote. He said the Chamber of Commerce is working for suffrage and that he feels confident the next Congress will pass a bill granting it.

A resolution will be presented to the next Congress by the association providing for a board of tax appeals and a $2,000 home tax exemption for the District. President William McK. Clayton, of the Citizens' Federation said there was much dissatisfaction with tax appraisals and that a board of appeals would remedy the situation.

A protest will be made by the citizens' body to the Washington Gas Light Company against alleged faulty quality and over pressure of gas in their district. The association will also request the extension of the "owl" service to the Brightwood car barn.

Officers elected were Wm. McK. Clayton, president; Frank Metcalf, vice president; William D. Gamble, treasurer; Wm. McK. Clayton, delegate to the Federation of Citizens' Associations; E. J. Ayres, alternate delegate.

The following chairmen of committees were appointed: E. J. Ayres, railroads; J. I. Erickson, sewers and water; Lewis J. Stahl, trees; J. P. Richards, parks and lawns; G. F. Williams, streets; Charles Heitmueller, fire and police; Homer Smith, membership; J. W. Smith, press; M. J. White, entertainment.
